In order to maintain an effective compliance system, a registered firm must have a detailed policy and procedures manual (PPM), a system of internal controls, day-to-day and systemic monitoring, and active supervision and training of its employees. A PPM is the foundation of a strong compliance system. A PPM creates a record of a firm’s tailored compliance framework, which is the result of consideration of relevant securities laws, a firm’s business model and related risks, and how a firm chooses to comply with legal and business requirements given unique aspects of its business. A PPM provides guidance to a firm’s employees on how to conduct themselves in a way that complies with securities legislation and should reflect all aspects of the firm’s business model, such as the firm’s size, type of clients, products, and sales practices. A PPM serves the dual purpose of educating its developers and users about securities laws and how to navigate matters specific to a firm on a day-to-day basis.

Upon receipt of an application for registration and during subsequent compliance examinations, staff at the Alberta Securities Commission (ASC staff or we) will review a firm’s PPM in order to ensure that the document explains that the firm has sufficient controls in place to comply with securities law requirements. Additionally, during oversight examinations, we will test a firm’s performance against the policies and procedures that a firm has established in its PPM.

A PPM should be updated regularly to reflect changes in securities law requirements and internal business-related changes to the operations of a firm. Employees should be required to review their firm’s PPM as well as any subsequent changes to it. A firm should also confirm that employees have completed their review of a firm’s PPM.

Given its function, drafting an effective PPM is critical to setting a firm up for compliance-related success. We recognize that drafting an effective PPM is time consuming. Given the expected positive effects a PPM will have on the conduct of a firm’s employees, and ultimately on investors’ experience with the financial markets, we are of the view that the benefits of an effective PPM outweigh the costs. Some of the expected positive benefits of having an effective PPM include:

- consistency in conduct by a firm’s employees;
- increased knowledge and awareness of requirements and tailored procedures required of a firm’s employees;
- reduced non-compliance as a result of increased awareness of expectations and a resultant decrease in costs related to non-compliance; and ultimately, an improved client experience.

We provide the attached document, Policy and Procedures Manual – Reference Resource for Exempt Market Dealers (Including Those with Multiple Registration Categories) (the PPM Reference Resource) in an attempt to help firms draft and maintain their PPMs. The PPM Reference Resource will be updated periodically to reflect relevant new additions and amendments to published securities laws and guidance related to registrants. This Notice is intended to serve two purposes: first, to assist firms in keeping informed of new securities laws and guidance published during a given year, by reference to one centralized source, and second, to therefore aid firms in their initial and ongoing drafting of PPMs.

NOTE: This Notice and the attached Policy and Procedures Manual – Reference Resource for Exempt Market Dealers (Including Those with Multiple Registration Categories) are intended to provide firms with helpful information about securities law and policies. They are not intended to provide legal or other professional advice. Readers are urged to consult with their own professional advisers before taking action based on any information appearing in these documents. The information contained in these documents is believed to be accurate and complete at the time of publication.

Definitions:
CCO – Chief Compliance Officer
UDP – Ultimate Designated Person
NI – National Instrument
CP – Companion Policy
KYC – Know Your Client
KYP – Know Your Product

Notes:
The policy and procedures manual should reflect the firm’s policies and procedures tailored to its business covering the areas listed below, and any other areas of securities law and guidance that may apply to the firm. Procedures should include information about who does what when, including delegation of authority during absences.

If the registrant (applicant) does not engage in or allow a certain kind of activity covered by the law or guidance, the policy should be a simple statement to that effect; for example “No leveraged trades are permitted.”

All procedures should be detailed enough to inform the registrant’s (applicant’s) staff of their duties and responsibilities.

The PPM should be dated, and each amendment should be dated, such that the reader knows how current the PPM is, and when new obligations were effective. Keeping a log of amendments is a useful reference document.

All national instruments and related companion policies can be found at Alberta Securities Commission/Securities Law & Policy/Regulatory Instruments.

The June 7, 2024 update includes Joint Staff Notice 31-363 published by staff of the Canadian Securities Administrators (CSA) and staff of the Canadian Investment Regulatory Organization (CIRO) (the Joint Staff Notice) related to the “Client Focused Reforms” to NI 31-103 Registration Requirements, Exemptions and Ongoing Registrant Obligations (NI 31-103) and its associated CP

1 This document will be updated periodically. In the interim, please review Regulatory Updates. See Appendix I for tracking of updates since initial publication June 12, 2019 – Update 1, Update 2, and Update 3.
(the Client Focused Reforms, or CFRs2). In particular, the Joint Staff Notice summarizes the findings of focused compliance reviews of firms’ conflict of interest practices, and it provides additional guidance to firms related to the conflict of interest requirements that came into effect on June 30, 2021.

In addition, the June 7, 2024 update includes references related to: (i) crypto assets and crypto trading platforms, which have been consolidated with prior references under the “Crypto Asset and Crypto Trading Platform” section of the table; and (ii) amendments to NI 31-103 and its associated CP relating to total cost reporting for investment funds and segregated funds, which comes into force on January 1, 2026.
